Article 4

Candidate Comparative Evaluation Procedure and General Evaluation Criteria

The preliminary evaluation of the candidates who have submitted applications will be done by an examining commission made up of three current or former tenured professors, including from foreign universities, appointed by the Department Council of Business and Management.

The members of the Commission are chosen from among professors of high academic standing and at least two members must belong to the group of academic recruitment field (macro-settore concorsuale), encompassing the academic recruitment field (settore concorsuale) and the academic-discipline field (settore scientifico-disciplinare), if any, that the selection concerns. In all cases at least one member of the Commission must belong to the academic recruitment field that the selection concerns.

The Department Council must state reasons for any appointment of members of the Commission belonging to a group of academic recruitment field different from that which the advertised position concerns.

In the event that there is no internal member belonging to the group of academic recruitment field encompassing the academic recruitment field and the academic-discipline field, if any, that the selection concerns, the Head of the Department that proposed the call for applications may be appointed a member of the Commission.

The Commission shall appoint one of its number as the chairperson.

The Commission may avail itself of collegial electronic work tools.

Should a commission member be replaced during the course of a procedure that has already commenced, everything done up to the time of that replacement shall remain valid and effective pursuant to the principle of conservation of legal acts.

Preliminary evaluation of candidates will be carried out in accordance with the criteria and parameters, including internationally recognized ones, laid down by Ministerial Decree No. 243 of 25 May 2011, as set out below.

1. Evaluation of qualifications and curriculum

The Examining Commission will make a reasoned assessment followed by a comparative evaluation – referring to the specific academic recruitment field and the profiles defined solely through indicating one or more academic-disciplines fields – of the curriculum and the following qualifications, duly documented, of the candidates:

- a) PhD or equivalent, awarded in Italy or abroad;

- b) teaching activities, if any, at university level in Italy or abroad;
- c) documented training or research activities at qualified Italian and foreign institutions;
- d) accomplishment of design activities relating to the academic recruitment fields where such is envisaged;
- e) organization, direction and coordination of national and international research groups or participation therein;
- f) ownership of patents relating to the academic recruitment fields where such is envisaged;
- g) speaker at national and international congresses and conventions;
- h) national and international prizes and recognition for research activities;
- i) European specialization diploma recognized by international boards relating to those academic recruitment fields where such is envisaged.

The evaluation of each qualification specified in this section 1 is made considering specifically the significance that it has regarding the quality and quantity of the research activities carried out by the individual candidate.

2. Evaluation of academic output

In its preliminary evaluation of the candidates the Examining Commission takes into account solely publications or papers accepted for publication in accordance with the rules in force and essays included in collective works and articles published in electronic and print journals except for internal notes or departmental reports. The thesis written for the PhD or equivalent qualifications is taken into account even if it does not meet the conditions set out in this paragraph.

The Commission makes the comparative evaluation of the publications referred to in the preceding paragraph on the basis of the following criteria:

- a) originality, innovativeness, methodological rigor and relevance of each academic publication;
- b) consistency of each publication with the academic recruitment field that the selection procedure concerns and with the profile, defined solely through indicating one or more academic-discipline fields, or with connected interdisciplinary subjects;
- c) academic importance of the editorial positioning of each publication and its dissemination within the academic community;
- d) analytical determination, including on the basis of criteria recognized in the relevant international academic community, of the individual contribution of the candidate in the case of participation in a collaborative work.

The Commission must also assess the amount of the candidate's overall academic output, its intensity and its continuity over time, with particular attention to the last three years, without prejudice to adequately documented periods of involuntary absence from research activities, especially to attend to parental duties.

In the context of the fields in which their use is established internationally, in evaluating publications the Commission will rely on the following indicators as at the deadline for submitting applications:

- 1. total number of citations;
- 2. average number of citations per publication;
- 3. total "impact factor" (where calculable);
- 4. average "impact factor" per publication (where calculable);
- 5. combinations of the above parameters suited to assessing the impact of the candidate's academic output (Hirsch index or similar).

At its first meeting, and in any case before accessing the names of candidates, the Commission will decide which databases to use in applying the above indicators.

The Commission may decide not to avail itself of the said indicators in the event that their use is not established in the academic recruitment field that the call for applications concerns.

Moreover, the following further evaluation criteria will be considered:

- a) The selected assistant professor must have developed research activities at the international level, as demonstrated by:
 - proven scientific maturity;
 - commitment to meaningful academic research and scientific publications in high-quality international academic journals;
 - active participation in the international academic debate of the scientific community (participation at international conferences, guest speeches, invitations to present research work in prestigious universities);
 - PhD and possible Visiting scholarship or lectureship in top schools and universities and research institutions;
 - participation in research groups and research fund raising activities.
- b) The successful candidate must have relevant teaching experience at either the level of BA, MSc or post-graduate courses, and experience in the supervision of Bachelor and MSc students final works. The post requires the ability to teach in Italian and/or English.

For the evaluation of the candidates, expressed through a score in hundredths, 30 points are reserved for qualifications, 40 points are reserved for publications, of which 10 points devoted to the amount of the candidate's overall academic output, its intensity and its continuity over time, with particular attention to the last three years, and bibliometric indicators where the Commission chooses to use them, and 30 points are reserved for the presentation given at the seminar.

On the basis of the preliminary evaluation of the candidates expressed through a reasoned and detailed judgment on qualifications, curriculum and academic output, including the PhD thesis, the Commission will proceed to admit the most comparatively deserving candidates – in a number ranging between 10% and 20% of the total and in any case no fewer than six individuals – to the public discussion with the Commission of qualifications and academic output, which shall be held in seminar form in a foreign language and will focus on the candidate's research activity with the possibility for questions to be taken. At the same time, the Commission shall ascertain adequate knowledge of the foreign language. All candidates will be admitted to the discussion should their number be six or fewer.

The candidates admitted to the seminar will not be remunerated therefor or be reimbursed their expenses.

The Commission summons those admitted to the seminar, giving them not less than twenty calendar days' notice.

Any absence from the seminar automatically constitutes withdrawal from the comparative evaluation.

At the end of the seminar, the Commission awards a score to the qualifications and publications, as well as to the presentation given at the seminar.

Upon completion of its work the Commission will come to an overall judgment on each candidate and will compile a ranking to be sent to the Department Council. The Commission will conclude its work within four months after its appointment. The Rector may extend once and by two months at most the deadline for the conclusion of the procedure for stated reasons given by the commission chairperson.

Taking account of the Examining Commission's judgment as well as teaching needs, the profile and the functions indicated in the call for applications, the Department Council will establish, by reasoned and favorable vote of the absolute majority of first-level and second-level professors, a ranking of names to be sent to the Rector for the latter's opinion and for subsequent forwarding to the Executive Committee concerning the designation of the winner. The Department Council may decide not to designate a winner, specifying why the professional profiles of the candidates do not meet its teaching and academic needs.

The winning candidate will be given detailed information on the University's offer, including the economic terms proposed. At the same time that candidate will be informed of the deadline by which he or she must communicate acceptance of the offer.

If for any reason whatsoever the winning candidate does not accept the offer made, the University may proceed to replace him or her with other suitable candidates following the ranking order that may have been compiled.
